We have quite a few BluRays in file format on a spare computer, so my husband has set it up to stream to our television. However, when we watch videos online on that computer, we can't get the audio working, yet the audio works just fine for the BluRay files. We are puzzled.

To make it more confusing, my husband opted for a Linux system instead of Windows (I don't know why) so he's trying to teach himself how to program Linux at the same time.
