I'll report more listening impressions later when the 3pi subs are up and running and dialed in.

I built the Decware HDT and ZOB and was very disappointed with both designs. My intention was to combine those speakers as mentioned by Steve in his white papers but never came around it as the HDT did not provide the bass response I wanted.

And I can't stand the distorted sound from most full range drivers when braking up... Useless IME.

I look forward to read about your impression of the 4pi when finished.
