Subject: Re: Musical Acts
Posted by audioaudio90 on Mon, 22 Jul 2013 15:01:42 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Jackson wrote on Sun, 21 July 2013 22:44I think that it is harder to find good music because the technology in the studio has gotten better. They can take a person with moderate talent and make them sound more radio friendly with all the effects and stuff. There are a lot more "studio" artists than there used to be.

This is true. For instance, I hate hearing a vocal Auto-Tuned to death (Ke$sha, I'm looking at you) and would prefer to hear someone who can actually sing.