
Subject: Re: Bargain sub amp
Posted by lon on Mon, 13 Sep 2004 03:24:34 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I apologize for not being able to track down where I saw the picture of this. What it looked like was a scaled down version of what we think of as a plate amp sub. The company noted as manufacturer has product listed for home theatre as well -- 5:1 setups. There have been several small designs at _audioXpress_ over the last few months which look like a match for such a unit. The Fitzmaurice Tuba (forthcoming) would be one and the G.R. Koonce project for small 8" vented subs is the other. My interest in this is a bit tepid though. You see, right now I am hearing what passes for subwoofer output is a dull thud through the wall from my neighbors in the apartment complex.
