Well, finally they are done and running! They look great, later I'll post some photos.

I'll order some t-nuts and screws, but now they are with wood screws.

They have great imaging, they are big but disappear with the music. I think I might have used too much insulation, as I have tight but shy bass extension (not much, but a little shy). Maybe the mids are a little higher too.

I didn't use shower pan gaskets, I used rubber gaskets (2mm), is this right?

Later I'll post more photos and comments.
