American idol has brought us Carrie Underwood who, some would argue is the one of the greatest country music vocalists of all time. The Voice has brought Cassadee Pope to us as a solo label. There are several other singers who come to mind when one thinks of these types of shows. Kelly Clarkson, Miranda Lambert and Chris Daughtry all have television shows to thank for their success.

Do you think that shows like The Voice and American Idol are helping or hurting the music industry?
