We used to have a PC as the center of the system, but when we moved house we couldn't fit everything as it used to be. Technology had moved on so much that the tablet was so powerful anyway that it was all that we needed. It's quad core, 1.8gz with 2GB RAM, 3D accelerated graphics and so on, and the sound is as good as our current set up will produce. I'm not sure it could handle better speakers though.
