Subject: Re: 4Pi without subwoofer
Posted by Wayne Parham on Fri, 31 Oct 2014 15:31:57 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message especially in smaller rooms. But to be quite honest, adding flanking subs takes them to a whole new level. Not only do you get a better foundation but you get modal smoothing. The flanking sub approach mitigates anomalies caused by early reflections from nearest boundaries as well as higher frequency room modes, especially the one from floor/ceiling. So my suggestion is to build your mains now, listen a while, and then as time permits consider adding a couple flanking subs.