About your finish being too shiny-

I had the same concerns.

For me, after applying several coats of clear lacquer (gloss), I used "0000" steel wool, and then "Johnsons paste wax".

What a nice "satin" finish it turned out to be. Not too shiny at all.

Don't worry about applying the "gloss" lacquer, it contains no clouding agents (for creating a satin or semi gloss) and mats down just right after the "0000" sell wool.

This was my experience.
