I have got to get a class like soldering 101 and get this going! sounds like there is a lot one can learn to do on these amps with a little education (like how not to kill yourself replacing a resistor!) Found really nice re-conditioner in MI ---nosvalves.com---very reasonable for labor (I thought) craig is nutso on Scott stuff--but does other stuff too-----New Question---some of the old vintage amps (the Golden Era the 50-60's???) used 2 recifier tubes instead of one---read something about this one feature makes a killer amp ??? Feedback gentlemen???
