I think finally the paint on the 4pis is acceptable. My wife agrees which is good since they'll be in the living room.

Still need to redo the r13 and put in the binding posts. Rest of the parts should be here next week!!

Glossy paint is the enemy, I'm not even sure I really won the battle here, but I've at least accepted a truce.

The 3 Pi's got cleaned up and a fresh coat of paint, I need to add the binding posts and hurricane nuts to them still. Does anyone know if the Lab12 shares the same screw hold pattern as the delta-12LF? I have of the deltas laying around I could use to measure the holes for the hurricane nuts or I could just wait until the Lab 12's get here.

Now I still have to run the wires for the 3pis.
