I had a pair of skull candy earphones that stopped working a couple weeks ago, and I want to get a new set. I usually get the kind with the rubber tip you stick in your ear, but I have seen people jogging with one that goes around the ear. I like to go on bicycle rides, and often my earbuds pop out, so I have been considering this around-ther-ear type.
Are they comfortable? They look like they would stay on well, but comfort is a big thing for me. Please drop a post below on which you think is more comfortable.
