Subject: Greeting strangers
Posted by sawyer25 on Wed, 03 Aug 2016 20:09:42 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

People tell me I have a split-personality; that I talk a lot but in some instances but remain extremely quiet in others. I am particularly very poor in starting conversations with people I am not used. I will greet them then it all ends there.

I like screening people a lot before I can let them into my circle. Is this a good or bad idea or people are just different?