Thanks, Ron.I've been as busy as a one-legged man in a butt-kicking contest lately, so I didn't take time to check it out myself. I knew I could ask here and get some good information.I did notice Duncan's Tube Data page during a quick search of the internet. It has a datasheet for the ECL82 tube. Paul Marossy has a bias chart page online, which shows bias for a few tubes and that's helpful too. But I didn't really have time to do anything but notice they were out there.I appeciate the heads-up on the tubes. Now, back to work...Wayne
