

---

Subject: Re: Setting up outside

Posted by Wayne Parham on Mon, 27 Mar 2017 15:13:28 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Bruce and Csharp are right. Placing speakers near a boundary decreases the radiating angle they must energize, so that helps increase SPL. Also, if you have more than one loudspeaker, e.g. mains and subs, then group them together. Other than that, setting up outdoors is the best place because there are no wall reflections.

---