Quoted under P3, Posting Rules: "We don't mind occasional off-topic content, but if you start in on a long discussion about a controversial topic not related to audio, expect to find your posts deleted. Discussions about political matters and the state of the world may be very important, but there are other places for that." I offer my hand and apologize to all if my prior statement was harsh and out of line. I thought my post was correct at the time given the above rule.....Sincerely,
Colin
