Gary---I have been recovering from amp buying-binging---so I need to make a choice of which amp to start with and it will probably be the Fisher A30's (dare I say it looks simple?) or my Knight KN-15's (Kits) I want to recondition them and upgrade a bit at the same time----learning which brands and materials of caps would be quite helpful----same thing goes for tubes---Isn't there an issue with tube choices as to what sound it makes (and that personal preference) where as caps are a matter of how much money you want to throw at the project---or do caps have as much to do with sound as tubes--- Jim
