Hi Everybody,

Well after some pause, the work has been resumed, so far speakers are 99% ready and just waiting to install glass wool any day from now.

I did spend a lot of time in making those speaker grills, it's a tricky work and require a lot of patience if you want to achieve neat looking and tight grills!

Speaker raisers/stands are done as well, they are just there to help raise the woofer to a visible line with the listening position without any obstruction and are slightly angled as well. Total height is about 5 inch on the front side.

Stay tuned in for a couple of days for the first test...
