Subject: Re: Western Electric 80th anniversary "300B" tube
Posted by gofar99 on Tue, 23 Jan 2018 21:16:22 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Perhaps, Where will they actually be made and really by whom. The original fabricating gear is probably long gone as are the original materials the tubes were made from. I have heard stuff like this before and usually it doesn't live up the promises. But then in this case I must state that I am not fond of the directly heated triode magic that some hear. I figure that highish levels of second harmonic distortion (that some say sound nice) is still distortion and to be avoided.