Subject: Why the discrepancies?
Posted by Trilling Me Softly on Sat, 08 Dec 2018 20:34:43 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I'm creating a DIY media room in my home and would like to get the best sound possible. When I take on a new project I usually start by googling about it. Google search is the fount of all knowledge after all. Well, have you ever noticed the instructional discrepancies when it comes to audio articles and videos? One resource will claim that doing X, Y, and Z will give you the best sound, while another resource claims that X, Y, and Z won't work, but A, B, and C will do the trick. What gives?