Subject: Best place to sell my old vinyls

I have a ton of vinyls that I'm no longer interested in keeping. I've been looking into the different avenues I can take to sell them. The easiest way would be going to the local music shop and trading them all for cash but I suspect that would also be the least profitable. On the other hand, trying to sell them individually online sounds a nightmare in its own right, but may be worth it if the price is right. What would you do?
