

---

Subject: uhhh...

Posted by PakProtector on Sat, 11 Jun 2005 15:15:47 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

There is no Miller effect on the capacitance in a choke. the shunt capacitance can be addressed by wind methods. neutralizing it is probably going to be a frequency specific job, and the audio passband is a bit large for that sort of thing. regards, Douglas

---