Oh my! Bless his little heart! I love how he chastised the piano player when she started. I guess he wasn't finished talking to the audience and she was trying to speed him along. Speaking of the audience, I wish the person filming could have caught their expressions. Kudos to the audience for holding the laughter in. Not sure I could've done it. When he jumped up off his stool at 2:31, dude thought he was killing it.

Thanks for sharing, Rusty! That's good entertainment. I'm not sure who I feel worse for, the singer, or the audience.
