Anybody seen this movie? It sure lingered on with me having watched it the other day. It's a psychological, metaphysical quest of a new world family cast out of their Jamestown type of colonial fort, to fend for themselves in the new world wilderness of New England. Slowly they are beset by evil taking their children, their crops and their minds by an entity(s) in the dark woods. Dialogue all in the period of Shakespearean English tongue. I had to switch on captions to understand. Thou art taken with the story unfold.
