Yep, those are 4-bolt main caps.

Here's a close-up of that conduit for the wires running from the dash to the trunk. That's the original part. I didn't know I'd find one there, and was planning to run my wires through some kind of protective cover. But I found this already there, so I ran my wires through it. This photo shows the section around the middle of the conduit, right under the front seat:
