Lots of broad generalizations here. Don't assume everybody is middle class, in the professions, in the business (of audio building for profit,) married, white etc. etc. or anything else maybe especially male. It's bad for the group and exclusionary. I got politically motivated because of Abu Ghraib and have been since. While I always vote, I felt shamed by what I saw. So I take double offense when I see remarks on here about what we should do to those so and so's blah blah and blah. Recent books on my reading table: What's The matter With Kansas? by Thomas Frank Moral Politics George Lakoff Banana Republicans Rampton and Stauber Audio roundtable is on my Bookmarks toolbar next to Democracy Now! streaming weblink from Pacifica radio.
