Cancelling the show is likely the right thing to do. While there might have been some folks at the show arguing over masks the bigger issue is the average age of the attendees. There are some young folk at the show but (as much as I hate to admit it) there are also a lot of us that aren't so young. Add a few other pre existing conditions along with our age and not having the show this year is likely for the best.

Looking forward to June.
