Just got mine this morning. I'm 67 so I'm in the tier 2B. For awhile it seemed like 2B or not 2B. Because the vaccine was very scarce where I live. My state covid registration would send vaccine availability that were literally a day trip to get to and from. Then the news broke of the snafu with the state sending 2000 doses to a tiny town in the far end of the state. Population 69. The governor took some well deserved heat for that.

It's starting to open up and my mass event today was superbly organized and efficient. I got the Pfizer. One down one to go. Hope everyone gets their good jab on soon.
