I watched the 1st few episodes of Resident Alien from the Sci-Fi channel that seemed at least entertaining. Mixture of mild suspense and comedy with an alien stranded on Earth from a crash landing. Taking on a human form and interacting with the human race sort of convincingly. Not always though. The comedy part. I've noticed these streaming type shows always do some sort of character development thing, that has a tendency to just seem like filling up time. Most of the characters aren't worth the effort.
