Yes Kaleb. The remake of the Thing with Keith David and Kurt Russell is mine as well. It really captured the paranoia and despair of battling this entity that lurked within, anyone. I liked the old 50's original too, with big Jim Arness as the Thing. I don't know why they remade it again this century basically just retelling the old story. They could of taken it beyond what was the original premise and setting and put it in a populated area to really create mass effect.
