I dunno Bergholt. What your asking may be a bit esoteric around here. I get the feeling it's kind of meat & taters around this forum, myself included. I don't know much of the classical genre. This might be another question for the Vinyl Engine. I know some people there post questions concerning classical symphonic music. I did listen to some of it and it's a nice quiet introspective type of music.
I think most vinyl music these days is derived from digital sources, with a few exceptions.
Vinyl is still my favorite medium. I haven't crossed into the streaming divide yet. May never. But I understand it can be more engaging than cd. Which I've mostly lost interest in.
