Sorry Bruce. I'm sure for me my physical description of this person is the least emotionally charged than the entitlement aspect is. I'll refrain from further "labeling". Though admittedly the one individual I skewered commenting on the Malone podcast is of such a visceral disdain on my part. Consider that a gaff one that I have no regrets, but won't repeat.
I do however feel what this article conveys is typical of what is our corrosive economic state of mind.
If you'd care to ever comment on any specific aspect of the economic subject matter I'm trying to convey. As Wayne has. That would be great.
