
Subject: Re: Pinging MQRacing
Posted by Steve Eddy on Thu, 22 Dec 2005 00:45:34 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I was looking at the pictures of your up-and-coming preamp and was curious what you were using to mount the RCA jacks to? Is it PTFE or PVC? I've got a situation where this would be an excellent fix, but wasn't sure if PVC would be detrimental in any way. Hello, Shane. The material wasn't plastic but actually some birdseye maple that I'd planed down to about 1/8". Though as Mike says we're likely going to end up using a cotton phenolic laminate which I really like for a number of reasons including sonics. se
