Subject: Re: Christmas Goodies
Posted by Rusty on Fri, 30 Dec 2022 21:32:43 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Oh I'm good with family and friends. My bad for the seeming deprivement. I meant it in jest. The weather was extreem this Christmas. Below zero, snow and it was as I like to call it, culling weather. So, I had no intention of striking out in the elements with several invitations. I'm long divorced without children. Family and friends are like myself aging with some dealing with health issues. Which is why I hit the gym 5 days a week. Christmas though for me is for the children. I have no religious inclinations. I'm able to observe it with or without company. This year, solo. But it was just fine. A warm fireplace insert fire, good food and the turntable spinning fine tunes. Santa knows I'm good without his efforts. And an encouragable rapscallion. Thankyou for your always noble intentions. And happy new years!