Are you going to watch the game? If so, do the commercials and halftime show? Speculation about Sunday's Super Bowl commercials is a hot topic on the radio lately. I guess I'm looking forward to seeing the commercial with the father who chases down his child's pacifier, since that's relatable, and it will be nice to see a dad in that role. I can't say that I view the commercials as the must-see attraction, though. I think the halftime show will be interesting, but that's because I like Prince and Purple Rain is on the setlist.
