I've kind'a evolved into satiation with my lust for hifi. I have the speakers that fulfilled my ideals. The same with electronics. Especially turntable when I went DD. So I'm content now with it. Sounds great to me. And that was what drove me all along. About the only current collecting I've done is scouring ebay for good reasonably priced vintage phono cartridges, that can be upgraded or preserved with good stylus replacement. About a bakers dozen now.
