Subject: ART Arrays Free To Good Home
Posted by basil.vidds on Tue, 25 Jul 2023 13:29:48 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Its with great sadness that I am going to part with the Art Array speakers I built a while ago. They have served me well for years and I am constantly amazed by the wide soundstage they present. I used them in my home theater without a center channel speaker. The managed to present a very clear and distinct phantom center speaker even when sitting in various positions in the room.

However, my kids have graduated college and we have downsized. I no longer have a room to use them in (at least one that passes the spouse-test). Given they are DIY speakers, I can't imagine anyone actually paying for them even though they sound really good.

I was originally registered as dbishopbliss and posted about my build in this thread:

https://audioroundtable.com/forum/index.php?t=msg&th=12188&goto=61368&#msg_61368

So, if you are in Northern Virginia, Maryland, DC area near zip code 20194 send me a reply and maybe they can have a new home.