I've only dipped my toes into modest higher end components like my tube amps and preamps through kits. Speakers through DIY build. It's all relative to income though. My income never could warrant the high end cost pursuit. But I hope you fulfill your desire for quality listening by whatever means.
Wise words! And it's (often) difficult to tell where the sound hobby end and the addiction starts - and it keeps moving. But I'm faily convinced my Leben integrated amp & RIAA are the end station for that parts of the chain.
