Subject: Re: Modern Monetary Theory
Posted by Rusty on Sun, 07 Jul 2024 20:38:39 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

The middle of the road. East, west, north, south. Republican, democrat. Tori, labor parties. The two yellow lines of demarcation that seemingly extend either way much deeper than ever for the legislative process. It's the unification of Neoliberalism for both sides. Working from the principles ordained by strategic thought that has shaped our western political landscape.
One party puts their stamp on it till the public sentiment sours and flips to the other side. But either way the rules of the game stay the same.
Meanwhile, thanks to China and the BRICS, things seem to show neither way this system of ours pretends to be is still the same thing on either side. China is winning. While we stew about it as sore losers.

https://michael-hudson.com/2024/07/the-need-for-a-new-political-vocabulary/