Yeah, Wayne, I've never heard of how the Bose company came to be or about it's failings. I've only known them for their noise-cancelling headphones, which are pretty amazing. They were innovative at the time, too. Thanks for sharing that bit of history about the company. It was interesting to read.

I'm less excited about this news than you guys are. Private equity doesn't like competition or waiting for long-term gain. They usually buy companies up and kill them. I guess we'll see what happens.
