Hi everyone. Not exactly OT, but seems to fit here, also posted on a sister site.

It is that time of the year that I reflect on the events that have transpired in the previous 12 months. Sort of a paraphrase on the philosophy in a Jimmy Buffett song (He went to Paris) ....There were good times and bad times but in the end it was a good year. At my age I figure that being largely healthy and still sane (my wife might argue that there are no sane audiophiles) is a good year. I look forward to new challenges ahead that will compel me to devise solutions. I have long believed that challenges and remedies are necessary to learn and grow. Without them life is a bit dull and less meaningful. I hope that you all have had as good year as mine and look forward to a good one next year. Keep designing, building and especially listening to audio.
