I think it's Gaza, which was part of Israel but has been sort of abandoned, politically.

If I understand correctly - which I'm sure I don't 'cause it's a complicated situation - the people in western Israel on the east bank of the Mediterranean are mostly Moslems. That area is called Gaza. They don't want to be citizens of Israel, but they aren't allowed to emigrate to surrounding Islamic nations either. The Moslem nations that are nearby can't take those people for one reason or another, probably mostly economic. So they are sort of stranded and they are pissed. Their living conditions are horrible.

They're just having so many problems over there. It's a very difficult situation, that's for sure.
