Hi Right now it will be PCB based as the actual physical layout is really important to keep the hum and noise low. And yes likely they will not have tubes, chassis or trannies as they are expensive to stock and potentially damaged in shipping. Plus the user can specify his favorite tube brands and to some extent type (ECC, EC, standard 12 volt or ones like 7025). We will naturally recommend the ones we think are best. Instructions will be like we did before on a CD. Cross your fingers that nothing derails us again.
