Scapegoating is for losers. China is our scapegoat. Mr. Wolff explains the contradictions of our economic political system that blames China for our very own foolish failures. It's what sour grapes losers do. Our system is trying to protect the phony hypocrisy of what it has wrought over the last 40-50 years of neoliberalism.

To bring manufacturing back to this country would take a long ranging plan to make it competitive with the rest of the world. Our economic philosophy has rendered that for what it is. Empty rhetoric and blame to cover the real deal.
