I'm sort of anachronistic towards popular technology. Everyone seems to have their ears plugged up with some sort of device these days. And looking down at their smart phones. Personally, I like the solitude of the surroundings. I can conger up music in my mind if I want. I don't need to be ensconced with social media. I can wait till I fire up the laptop.
So.. I just don't get it. But, just different strokes. Besides, I have tinnitus also.
