
Subject: Re: DH rectifier connection
Posted by Forty2wo on Fri, 27 Oct 2006 02:39:42 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Yes, you are correct. If your heater winding has a CT, you can tap your B+ from it. I use pin 8, then if I want to switch to an indirectly heated rectifier you have a direct connection to the cathode...John
