

---

Subject: Re: Empire

Posted by Rusty on Mon, 02 Jun 2025 19:05:42 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Nice article from Alistair Crooke, former British diplomat about the American financial Monetary system losing ground to China. The real reason for the trade war. Alistair is a very classy and astute Brit. that has the experience of years of diplomacy work and the British national security organization MI5.

China's monetary system and state banking is overtaking the SWIFT trade clearing system that due to our sanctioning policy has, like computer chips and a host of other things caused the sanctioned-ee's to forge their own systems for trade clearing, computer chips and "things". They don't need or particularly want our bond dollars anymore. Our free lunch for our military complex. And China can do trade without us. They would like to but since we do nothing but antagonize. Why?

The United States monetary financial empire is sputtering due to its very own arrogant hegemony beliefs of dominance. Things can get tough for us little people. Our government doesn't plan things well other than trying to undermine other countries.

<https://strategic-culture.su/news/2025/06/02/one-quiet-early-morning-in-beijing-the-dollars-crown-s-lipped/>

I can't help but think of an old song by Bob Wills and his Texas Playboys to compare to our leadership's dilemma.

I Can't Go On This Way...

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=rheqGynrt0M>

---