From Ben Norton's Geopolitical Economy Report.

The United States and Israel are jointly waging war on Iran, but why? What are their real goals?

What the US empire would like to accomplish is the following:

Maintain US hegemony in West Asia (aka the Middle East)

Destroy the anti-colonial Axis of Resistance, making possible the total colonization of Palestine

Prevent Iran from ever developing nuclear capabilities

Overthrow or at least weaken Iran's independent, revolutionary government

Scare other countries in the region that may seek to move away from the US and the dollar (especially the Gulf monarchies)

Preserve the petrodollar system, ensuring global demand for the US dollar

Destabilize BRICS and the Shanghai Cooperation Organization, divide the Global South, and disrupt the multipolar project

Break up the Iran-Russia-China partnership, with the ultimate goal of isolating Beijing

That said, it is of course by no means guaranteed that these goals will be achieved.

My take on this?

Let's hope that none of these goals are achieved. That it leads to the weakening of the United States ability to conduct its habitual and wasteful hegemony cause. And concentrate in on itself. Morally, virtuously and willfully becoming a better nation with the rest of the world. As is, we have been like an Ogre, stomping around causing chaos and discord in the world.

Our deep state must be exposed and rebuked. Never being able to influence our leadership again.
