Sometimes a good old ass whuppin' provides a sobering change of heart. Iran provided that to Israel last month. The evil Zionist regime has clamped down on any reporting that Iran's missile exchange did to them. But it was extensive. Had it continued, Israel's means of terror may have been extinguished. Along with it's government. Too bad.

And Iran's military capabilities have certainly gotten America's attention finally. Along with its capability to defend against future missile attacks with what our longstanding belief in military superiority has proven to show the fraud of our military industrial complex. The most expensive yet least efficient ability to produce quantity and quality.

The US and Israel wanted a regime change in Iran. They wanted to bring in the son of the late Shah of Iran. An entitled trust fund brat of a dictator that absconded with Iranian wealth when run out of office with their revolution in the 70's.

Israel along with help from Britain's MI6 and US CIA carried out a decapitation strike first in Iran, killing scientists and military officials, and their family's. And the Trump administration followed up with an air strike to test out those bunker buster bombs.

The whole farse flopped fortunately when Bibi went belly aching to Uncle Sam to make those meanie Iranian's stop raining missiles down on them. That their Iron Dome couldn't cope with. And the US couldn't replenish. Because our bloated war machine spends more on stock buybacks then building weapons efficiently.

This article gives the details. Alternative journalism is a godsend for the truth from the rotten crap shoved down the publics throat from corporate journalism.
