This article speaks to what seems so dumbfounding for why the United States is placing so much priority with funding and resources on international relations rather than focusing on building itself up internally to meet the demand on a new and changing world economy.

But it kind of explains why the current administration has attempted to do by trimming government agencies down and with the big bill passed recently to satisfy the political donor base by cutting government spending domestically imperiling the poorest of the poor using Medicaid serves as a means to justify spending on the prescribed military budget now over a trillion dollars.

And this is just what is so creepy about this empires priorities that is reckless, feckless and mean spirited to our own people and the tranquility of the world itself. Like a mental illness it seems. Twisted and tormented.

Anyway this is the blueprint that our empire managers are using to conduct its madness.
